DETAILED ACTION

1. Election filed by applicant on 3/3/08 is acknowledged. Claims 1-15 and 36-37 are elected for consideration. Claims 16-35 have been withdrawn from consideration without traverse.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 6 recites the limitation "the ID" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1, 4-15 and 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Champagne et al. (US 7,143,169).

6. As per claims 1 and 9-11, Champagne teaches the invention as claimed including a device for transmitting a message for reception by another device, comprising:

a processor for adding location information [118, extra data, Fig. 1] to the message, before transmission, wherein the location information identifies an area within which the message is to be hosted for reception by the other device [col. 12, line 23 – col. 13, line 3; col. 16, lines 10-35]; and a transmitter for transmitting the message, with the location information [col. 13, lines 4-29; col. 13, line 64 – col. 14, line 20].

7. As per claims 4 and 5, Champagne teaches a coder for redundantly encoding the message portions and the processor adds a different sequence number to each data structure [col. 16, lines 36-48].

8. As per claims 6-8, Champagne teaches the processor adds the same ID to each data structure, the ID identifies the device or device user, the ID identifies the intended recipient device or user of the message [col. 16, lines 5-9].

9. As per claims 12-14, Champagne teaches identify the location of neighbouring devices, the device is arranged to store the location dependent addresses of neighbouring devices and the transmitter selectively transmits directly to devices located within the area [col. 12, line 23 – col. 13, line 3; col. 16, lines 10-35].

10. As per claims 15 and 37, since they are method and apparatus claims of claim 1, they are rejected for the same basis as claim 1 above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

11. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

12. Claims 2-3 and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Champagne et al. (US 7,143,169) as applied to claims 1, 4-15 and 37, in view of Official Notice.

13. As per claims 2 and 3, Champagne teaches the invention substantially as claim 1. Champagne does not specifically teach dividing the message into a plurality of separate message portions and adding the same location information to each message portion before transmit the messages. However, "Official Notice" is taken that both the concept and advantages of providing for dividing message is well known and expected in the art. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to include message dividing step in Champagne's system because doing so would bring convenience to the message recipient when his device does not have sufficient memory space.

14. As per claim 36, Champagne teaches the invention substantially as claimed including a device, for participating in an ad-hoc radio communications network and transmitting a message for receipt by another device, comprising a processor adding the same location information to each of the separate message portions; and a transmitter for transmitting the messages storage in devices located within the area [col. 12, line 23 – col. 14, line 20; col. 16, lines 10-35].

15. Champagne does not specifically teach dividing the message into a plurality of separate message portions. However, "Official Notice" is taken that both the concept and advantages of providing for dividing message is well known and expected in the art. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to include message dividing step in Champagne's system because doing so would bring convenience to the message recipient when his device does not have sufficient memory space.

Conclusion

16. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:

O'Toole, Jr. (US 7,139,820) and Wang (US 2002./0160745) disclose message system.
